THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

On a broader scale, of course, the Portland Chamber of Commerce has been to Oregon and Washington what the local Commercial club has been to Hood River. The larger organization has been severely criticised from time to time. But we think no one will attempt to declare that the results obtained have not been good for Oregon. In a recent editorial the Oregonian said:

The advantages and opportunities of Oregon and Washington were not sufficiently known to the world at large, and Portland, through its Commercial club and Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Oregon Development League, developed large sums and much intelligent work through trained men to the greater advertisement of the Pacific northwest. It set a high example of disinterested service by striving to promote the interest of Oregon first, and of Portland only as an incident to the general scheme. Portland speaks for Portland in terms of Oregon.

The local Commercial club has done more than any other institution toward making the name of Hood River famous. Elements of nature have exceeded the club, it is true, for the soil and climatic conditions, producing a perfect apple, have given the organization a basis on which to work, and the club members have done their best.

The Commercial club has made many mistakes. But history has shown the errors of many individuals in the past four or five years. And we should not allow these past blunders to so blind us that in our prejudices we cannot see the good of a commercial organization.

The club's attitude in the past may have been a little flamboyant. Who of us did not do a little extravagant boasting? We have settled on a more economic, solid foundation, business men and orchardists. The club has settled down. But it is still needed. We want our Commercial club to remain intact to conservatively set before the numerous visitors we are going to have the innumerable opportunities we have to offer.

The history of the past year's crop returns, full of fables, if you please, will be good material to work on.

WASCO DEADLOCKED

Wasco county is in a deadlock over the construction of good roads. Says The Dalles Chronicle:

There is a preponderance of sentiment throughout this county in favor of bonding for the highway and better roads, as was evidenced at the good roads meeting which was held at the court house Saturday afternoon, when delegates from all sections of the county were in attendance. The delegates of the Dufur delegates that the Columbia highway should be sacrificed to the trunk line road through Dufur caused a deadlock and the subsequent decision of the Wasco County Good Roads Association, to drop the bonding plan, has caused the Dufur delegates to demand that $200,000 of the $340,000 be expended on the road to the south, leaving only $140,000 for the road between Mosier and The Dalles, and $35,000 for the improvement of the highway from this city to Fairbanks.

One hundred and five thousand dollars would only build part of the highway, and because the road could not be completed for that amount, this sum would lose the $30,000 which had been offered by the state in return for the completion of the highway by this county.

The obdurate Dufur delegates refused to compromise, and it was plain that they could make good their threat to defeat the bond issue.

This business of a division in a county is bad. We of Hood River hope that a compromise that will not leave ill feelings will be effected. We want to see the Columbia river highway extended on the east.

The season for snows has reached Hood River. Do not forget that city ordinance which provides for the removal of snow from all sidewalks.

Early winter seems a favorite time for petty burglaries to be staged. At this season last year a number of small cases were reported to Sheriff Johnson.

Hood River merchants have laid in supplies for the choosing of Santa Claus. It is now time for heads of families to get busy.

The fireman fund is enriched by a substantial sum, and everybody had oodles of fun at the annual ball.

Where were you last Wednesday when the annual school meeting was held?

Don't forget to feed the birds.

Road Supervisor is Criticized

Ranchers of the Barrett district, of which Roy D. Smith is road supervisor, are complaining that Mr. Smith is allowing all the shade trees along the road to be cut by employees.

"Mr. Smith," says S. G. Osborn, "is a mighty good road man, but in my opinion he is making a great mistake in cutting down the trees. Many fine old oaks that in no way obstructed the drainage of the road or shaded it have been cut down for wood."

Mrs. Clara Osborn, who owns a Belmont place, tells me that a pine tree in front of her place was cut last year. She declared that she would not have taken $50 for the tree.

CARE GIVEN TO PRESIDENT'S APPLES

Because the donors of the boxes of apples sent to President Woodrow Wilson and his prospective bride, Mrs. Norman Galt, were undecided Monday as to the proper address to be placed on the gift boxes, the entire carload of gift fruit, which will be shipped by refrigerator freight car to New York, where it will be distributed by express, was held here until Tuesday. Some thought the fruit should be sent direct to the White House, while others decided on Shadowbrook as the proper address. While the officials sought further information the apples rested here in cold storage.

No incident has ever created greater excitement around the local warehouses of the Association than the preparation of the two gift boxes of apples for the president. One of the boxes will contain extra fancy Spitzenburg and the other has been filled with Newtowns. After the apples were selected from chosen fruit grown by E. E. Gould, they were finally sorted by Sam G. Campbell, chief inspector of the Apple Growers association.

One of the two gift cars sent out by Association members was routed out Tuesday for Chicago. It contains 500 boxes of selected apples, which will be distributed principally throughout the middle west. However, several boxes will be shipped to points as far south as Florida.

The New York gift car contains fruit for New England points on the Atlantic coast and Canadian points.

The boxes were finally addressed to President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, White House, Washington, D. C.

Hood River Has Got Apple Awards
(From Oregon Commission Bulletin)
Oregon lost the grand sweepstakes in apples, but won a large number of medals on horticultural products, considering the number of entries, than any other state competing for awards at the Panama-Pacific exposition. A grand total of 115 medals were captured, and of these 28 were medals of honor, 41 gold medals, 22 silver medals, 12 bronze medals and 12 exhibits received honorable mention.

Awards were landed as follows: Medals of honor, Hood River county 10; Jackson county 10; gold medals, Hood River 7; Jackson 19; silver medals, Hood River 11; Hood River and Jackson made the overwhelming number of entries, and only such entries as were reasonably certain of some sort of placement were actually taken before the jury.

Medals of honor: Gus Miller, d'Anjou pears; Mrs. P. A. Jones, d'Anjou pears; W. E. King, d'Anjou pears; F. B. Blagg, Bosc pears; G. M. Chambers, Delicious apples; W. B. Dyer, d'Anjou pears; East Hood River Fruit Co., Mosier, d'Anjou pears; J. R. Nunemaker, Lambert cherries; C. A. Reed, Hood Bosc pears; T. Weiden, Bananas apples.

Gold medals: Thomas E. Avery, Jonathan apples; J. L. Carter, Bananas apples; Hood River Apple Growers Association, Clark Seedling strawberries; Thos. King, Bartlett pears; W. E. King, Bosc pears; Dr. C. A. McCrum, Mosier, Bosc pears; Gus Miller, Clinton pears; J. R. Nunemaker, Bananas cherries; H. S. Reed, Delicious apples.

Silver medals: Carl Wodecki, The Dalles, Bing cherries; J. H. Kobarg, Hood River, egg plant.

Bronze medals: The Dalles Fruit Growers Association, Italian Prunes.

Newport Settlement Made
The county court yesterday settled in full with the Newport Land & Construction Co., paying them the sum of $3,000 that had been held back on the Columbia river highway contract. H. R. Newport, who was here for the court's session, stated that his company had agreed to pay the Western Union Co. the sum of $400, damages to lines along the highway, and that all claims with the O. W. F. & N. Co. had been settled with the exception of the cost of shifting the track at Lindsay creek and the construction of fences along the railway right of way, the latter expense to be incurred in the future.

With the exception of the above two items, the total expense of which will be approximately $2,500, S. Benson has cared for all the expense incurred in building the highway from the Multnomah county line to Viento. Mr. Benson's attorney, E. E. Covert, has announced that Mr. Benson will not pay this. However, Judge Stanton declares that it will be paid by the state, and has a refusal over Mr. Benson's signature.

The obdurate Dufur delegates refused to compromise, and it was plain that they could make good their threat to defeat the bond issue.

This business of a division in a county is bad. We of Hood River hope that a compromise that will not leave ill feelings will be effected. We want to see the Columbia river highway extended on the east.

SPRAY FACTORY BUILDINGS RISING

Hood River is assured of another enterprise that should be a source of pride to the orchardists. The buildings of J. C. Butcher, who purchased a site west of the E. J. Young packing house last spring, are rising rapidly. One, in fact, is practically completed. Only those who have visited the scene of the new factory can comprehend the extent of the new improvements.

Mr. Butcher will not only manufacture materials for Hood River consumption, but will turn out sprays for shipment to other northwestern orchard districts. He has been successfully engaged in spray manufacturing at Clackamas. All of his equipment will be installed at the local plant, and he has already become a Hood River booster.

The building nearly completed will be used for an office and laboratory. It is located at the east end of the lot purchased by Mr. Butcher from J. F. Satchler. Another structure of the same dimensions will be built at the west end of the lot. Between the two will be the large three story tank-house, where the materials will be mixed.

The buildings, of corrugated iron structure, are being erected by H. Cramer.

Passion Play Lecture Sunday

A pictorial reproduction of the Passion Play of Oberammergau will be presented at the Congregational church next Sunday at 5 o'clock and at Pine Grove M. E. church that evening at 8 o'clock. Mr. Wonnacott, secretary of the Portland Y. M. C. A., who will give the lecture, personally saw the play and stayed long enough in Oberammergau to become acquainted with the players and their home life.

In view of the fact that "Christians" were recently killed in the present European war, and that most of the players are engaged in war, the play cannot be regarded as a mere entertainment of double interest; first for its contents and superb presentation of the last week of Christ on earth, and secondly for its historical value.

Lecture is free to everyone.

Society Program Enjoyed

The program of the Heights Literary society last Friday evening was enjoyed by a large audience. The program was as follows: Quartet, Swartout, Davenport, Imbler and Cash; instrumental music, Swartout, Loving and Cash; song, "Hood River Slogan," J. C. Simonton; song, Mary Hauling; recitation, Carl Smith; recitation, Ernest Smith; recitation, Tillman Smith; juggling act, Lou Isenberg; music by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hill. The sum of $12.50 was realized from the sale of basket lunches.

The debate for tomorrow night will be, "Resolved, That wealth has caused more distress and misery than poverty." Clarence Brown, Mrs. Bob Hill and Mrs. Hugh Smith will represent the affirmative, while Jean Sager, Lou Isenberg and Toots Howard will defend poverty.

Tacoma Municipal Rate Cheap

The cheapest rate for electricity of any city in the United States is to be enjoyed by consumers in Tacoma, beginning January 1 next, according to an announcement by Light Commissioner Drake, says a dispatch. A total saving of approximately $60,000 a year to patrons of the city owned plant will be effected.

The most important reductions are the reduction in current for dwelling houses from 5¢ cents to five cents a kilowatt hour, with a rate of one cent where used for heating and cooking; for business houses from 5¢ cents to four cents as the maximum, with a sliding scale dropping as low as 1.32 cents a kilowatt.

Wilde Sues Heilbronner

D. L. Wilde has brought suit against J. H. Heilbronner for the sum of $250, the complaint filed by Judge Derby Tuesday alleging that the defendant has received from Edward Novak the sum named for the use and benefit of the plaintiff, but that Mr. Heilbronner refuses to make any accounting of same.

As a defense it is alleged that the money was due Mr. Heilbronner as a commission for the sale of Mr. Wilde's place, the sale, however, between Mr. Novak and Mr. Wilde, it is stated, fell through before final consummation.

Club Plans Jinx

The Commercial club will hold jinx on Monday evening, December 13, when three new directors will be elected. Cigars and cider will be served, and the club members will be entertained by boxing and wrestling matches, which are being arranged by Will McGuire.

Columbia Highway Blocked

The Columbia highway is blocked a mile east of Mitchell Point by debris heaped in the road last Saturday when Road Supervisor Curran blew off a rocky point with a powder explosion. The blockade will soon be cleared away.

Evinger's Store Burglarized

The Heights confectionery store of O. B. Evinger was burglarized last Friday night. A quantity of tobacco and candy was taken. Cash in the till was overlooked.

APPLE NOTES

A dispatch from Hiawatha, Kans., says that the consumption of apples by the big cider and vinegar factories of that community will cause a famine of apples within a few weeks. Cider mills in all rural districts of the Kansas country are said to be running to capacity.

The baby barrel, holding a bushel and a half of winter apples, is this season coming into vogue throughout the east. Some orchardists are packing their fancy grades in this size receptacle. Experiments in facing the baby barrel seem to show that the standard size facing apples make a tight and compact tier layer and show up very attractively when opened for display and this is half the sale. Corrugated caps of the proper size can be procured for this barrellette. The coopers charge something more than half the price of the standard size, but say they can reduce the cost another year if the demand warrants its manufacture.

The Virginia people are quite enthusiastic over this new package, for with it they will be enabled to better compete with western box which is proving so popular wherever offered.—Field and Farm.

DO YOUR Christmas Shopping EARLY

Is the wisest thing to do while you have so many useful gifts to choose from for every member of your family and your friends. Just step in this store and see how easily your wants can be supplied. We were never better supplied with so many suitable gifts for old, middle aged and young as we are this season. Come in and just look around at the big display we are getting out on the second floor. You do not have to buy but we want you to see what we have so that you may know where to find the articles wanted when you are ready to buy.
